Science Center and SSLRC Update

The focus of the new Science Center construction has now shifted to the inside of the building, with the impressive exterior appearing nearly complete. The adjacent amphitheater has taken form, with stairways, trellises, and seating. North of the amphitheater is the pad for the next building, the Student Services & Learning Resources Center (SSLRC). The picture to the left shows a recent concrete pour for the new building. This building will eventually house the majority of student support services, in addition to a new library and TLC. It's an exciting time as construction moves forward!
