Science Center and SSLRC Update

With the exterior of the new Science Center building at the Canyon Country campus looking quite impressive, things continue to bustle on the inside, with the installation of the HVAC, electrical, etc.. The adjacent amphitheater continues its progress, complete with stairways, trellises, and seating. North of the amphitheater is the pad for the next building, the Student Services & Learning Resources Center (SSLRC), which is starting to take shape. This building will eventually house the majority of student support services, in addition to a new library and TLC. It's exciting times as progress continues!
